

HealthTech Ireland Awards Crowns 10 Innovators Retiring CEO Receives Outstanding Achievement Award

29th November 2021

HealthTech Ireland's Annual Health Technology Innovation Awards made awards across ten categories recognising the enormous strides being taken in medical technology in Ireland. The winners were Arjo Ireland, Beaumont Hospital, Salaso, Galway Roscommon Child & Adolescent Mental Health Services, Oxygen-Care, Trimedika/HSE Digital Transformation, Smith & Nephew, Yellow Schedule, Syncrophi/HSE Digital Transformation and National Medical Device Office and HSE & Deloitte Samplepath. Taking place virtually the event attracted over 450 attendees online.

The quality and calibre of the winning entries was evident, with many of the Award Winners' contributions to the health service during the current pandemic acknowledged during the night. The judging panels had a difficult job and Dr. Philip Crowley, HSE's National Director of Strategy and Research, who judged the Patient Safety Award, said it was a very difficult task as all entries were "excellent". A full list of Award Categories, Finalists and Winners can be viewed on our website <https://www.healthtechireland.ie/>.

Justin Carty, CEO, HealthTech Ireland said: "A big thank you must go to our Sponsors, particularly our Lead Sponsor, Enterprise Ireland, without whose continuing support these Awards would not have been held. It was great to see our long time sponsors BEAI, Health Innovation Hub Ireland, RCSI Faculty of Nursing and Midwifery, Mangan O'Beirne Solicitors and Change Healthcare now being joined by AWS, InterSystems, and HealthBeacon."

The final Award of the evening was presented to HealthTech Ireland's retiring CEO, Justin Carty for his OUTSTANDING CONTRIBUTION TO INDUSTRY. For the past 13 years Justin has been at the helm of HealthTech Ireland's progress and expansion. Many former stakeholders and colleagues expressed their appreciation of Justin's tireless advocacy for healthcare in Ireland by recording short pieces for a video which was presented to him on the night. They all agreed that he would be missed greatly.

HealthTech Ireland is planning a MEET THE WINNERS event in early 2022 when all those who were to attend the in-person gala dinner and awards celebration can meet again in a safe environment and can celebrate together the great innovations our members bring to healthcare in Ireland.
